COPYRIGHT NOTICE

The copyright law of the United States governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material. Since 1978, unpublished manuscripts have been accorded federal copyright protection. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of those specified conditions is that the copy is not to be "Used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a researcher uses a reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement. Copyright ownership does not necessarily accompany physical ownership of a manuscript. An owner of the physical manuscript may assert certain proprietary rights in regard to the physical manuscript, for example permitting or denying access to the property. This assertion of ownership rights, however, is distinct and separate from any copyright consideration affecting the manuscript.
